

Directions for Use

The Index is arranged in one alphabet which includes all author entries, subject entries and such title entries as have been considered necessary.

The same information, including paging, is given for all entries, author, subject and title. Material under an author is arranged as follows:

1. Author's works
2. Works about the author. When both works by and about an author are included, the works about him are listed under the heading About
3. Criticism of an individual work by the author under the heading About individual works. An example follows:

Lincoln, Abraham

†<sup>1</sup> Gettysburg address

p151

About

Wallace, H. A Lincoln

In Flanagan, J T. ed America is West
p661-64

About individual works

Gettysburg address

Orcutt, W. D. True story of the Gettys- burg address

In From my library walls p214-17

†<sup>1</sup> indicates that additional references to an essay so marked are listed in the 1900-1933 cumulation.

When †<sup>1</sup> and †<sup>2</sup> are used together, additional references will be found in both cumulations.

FOREWORD

This permanent volume is a cumulation in one alphabet of all issues of the Index which have been published from 1941 through July 1947. In addition 105 volumes published since July 1947 have been indexed, carrying the indexing through the year 1947. This volume is to be used with the 1900-1933 and the 1934-1940 permanent volumes. The next issue of the Index will be the July 1948 semi-annual number.

During this period there have been some changes in the format of the Index: (1) listing author analytics in contents form, except when there are three or more books by the same author, then titles are arranged in one alphabet, such is the case with Max Graf in this issue, (2) a new form—title in italics, centered, for articles “about individual works” of a given author, (3) elimination of listing contents of a book of criticism or collective biography which would be simply a list of names with no distinguishing comments, (4) magazine references given in full rather than volume and page number only, (5) title of play entry for dramatic criticism, (6) in many cases articles are listed under related subjects rather than depending upon “see also” references to bring out additional information on a given subject.

The indexing in this volume was under the direction of Miss Marian Shaw until January 1943, of Mrs. Beatrice B Rakestraw until July 1945, and of the present editor since that date.

The continued cooperation of the librarians who have checked tentative lists and suggested additional titles is appreciated. A list of collaborating libraries will be found on the following page. We also wish to acknowledge the kindness of those publishers who have supplied us with copies of their publications for indexing purposes. The editors would like to acknowledge the able assistance of Mrs. Lucille P. Lee until her resignation in February 1947, and of Mrs. Anne C. D'Alessandro, whose efficient help has facilitated the cumulation of this volume.

February 1948

DOROTHY H. WEST

Dale Carnegie's biographical roundup

Contents—Continued

- At sixty he attended burlesque shows; at ninety-three he read Plato to improve his mind
- General who conquered Rome stood twenty-eighth from the bottom of his class at West Point
- Great-grandson of Queen Victoria is the toughest commando of them all
- He advertised for a wife and got over three hundred applicants
- He attended school only seven years; yet he held degrees from six universities
- He commanded his Italians to "live dangerously"—but he was afraid to go home in the dark
- He dictates in taxicabs and travels five thousand miles for one week of skiing
- He earned five thousand dollars a day, yet he searched garbage cans for food for his pet vulture
- He has the bumps in his throat insured for one hundred thousand dollars
- He hated mathematics—yet they made him Minister of finance
- He is a hero of two wars, yet he was once too shy to say "Good morning"
- He knows how to handle ships, Japs, and wives
- He makes news, but he doesn't listen to it
- He never saw a railroad train until he was seventeen; yet he became one of the most influential men in the world
- He once built kites on the kitchen floor in Kansas—now he builds bombers in his own factory
- He once rode a mule to a country school—yet he earned half a million dollars in four minutes
- He once was afraid of girls—now they stop work for half a day just to catch a glimpse of him
- He paid a cartoonist fifty thousand dollars a year to ridicule him
- He refused to invest money in a new-fangled contraption called the telephone
- He sold planes to South America the North American way
- He started in a photographer's shop and became the world's greatest builder of ships
- He was on his way to the graveyard to be buried in World war I; yet he became Great Britain's most famous general in World war II
- He was too shy to call on his friends, but he became the most brilliant speaker of the age
- He went down to the sea in a diver's helmet and brought up a dry-dock
- His parents were serfs, but he now rules two hundred million people

How a shy, self-conscious boy became one of America's greatest military leaders

Most famous ball club manager in America lost eight hundred games in eight years

Once he couldn't hold a job in a storage warehouse; but he now holds down the job of being America's favorite comedian

One of Great Britain's most famous leaders married a woman who refused to have children under the British flag

Only man in history who was ever attacked by bows and arrows as well as dive-bombers

Phrenologist advised his mother—now he advises presidents

Reward of 200,000 dollars was offered for him, dead or alive

She faced a hundred thousand hostile soldiers to save her husband

She has told a million girls how to get husbands

They called it a suicide brigade—but he brought 'em back alive!

They hired him to teach school because he could fight

They made history in twelve seconds

They said he would teach history; instead, he makes history for others to teach

World's most famous woman scientist once slept under a chair to keep warm

Costly lesson to be remembered

Dark days

Immortality and mediocrity in the White House

Middle-sized man takes on the champ

Miracle men move in

New England contributes the man of the hour

Rendezvous of three men

Safe in the western hemisphere

Shall we never be rid of the past?

Shining knights of the new order

Singer, a serious man, a standard bearer

Swing your pardners in the White House

Take another look at the quarterback

War that was none of our business

Washington parties are serious affairs

We almost killed the golden goose

Worrier at the helm
